INTRODUCTION

I am delighted that you are considering Centenary College! You will find this community a place where the quality of both the academics, and our relationships, combine to create a challenging yet supportive environment. The faculty is outstanding. And what makes them special is that they will take a personal interest in you and help you struggle with everyday issues using the highest values of the Judeo-

Christian tradition. Centenary will prepare you for a successful lifetime of intellectual, emotional and spiritual fulfillment. Best Wishes!

Sincerely,

Donald A. Webb

President

"I really owe a great deal to Centenary, but especially to my professors. They brought passion and energy to the classroom, making us feel as well as think, and challenged us to reach for a higher level of awareness, a more intense curiosity for understanding experience, and a broader, more compassionate worldview. After all, that's what a liberal arts education is all about."

CARING FACULTY

Our faculty puts teaching first. Students attending Centenary receive the support they need to achieve top performance in all of their classes. With an average of about eleven students per class, faculty members can afford to devote more individual attention to each person. They take interest in your academic and personal endeavors in a way that can't be equalled through a larger university system.

Dr. Earle Labor, internationally recognized as a leading authority on Jack London, feels this way: "Students teach us! Our publication, LIT: Literature and Interpretive Techniques, has come out of the classroom. I will get insights into literature that I would never get on my own! It's because of the special intellectual energy that is generated there."

Dr. Beth Leuck encourages her students to plunge into research even as early as the sophomore year. Dr. Leuck and one student studied geckos, a nocturnal lizard, observed behavior never before recorded and published the results in a scientific journal. This one-on-one experience is what makes our students place twice above the national average in medical school.

Mrs. Gale Odom, a consummate performer, brings to her students the joy of a career in music. She regularly performs with the Shreveport Symphony as well as in operas like Sweeny Todd at Centenary's Marjorie Lyons Playhouse.

Dr. Barrie Richardson, Dean of the Frost School of Business, delivers lectures with charisma, solves problems creatively and bravely proposes needed changes. He makes magic figuratively and literally (he really can memorize a Time magazine in 45 minutes!) His classes are not to be forgotten.

Dr. Alice Berry has received the distinct honor of seeing her doctoral thesis appear on the required reading list of French universities. Her passion for the French language and culture transfuses her classes with an excitement for learning. One student said, "I work hard in Madame Berry's class because I know she is working just as hard."

Dr. Sam Shepherd believes that, "History is a process of discovering. Many students are surprised when we focus on the human experiences of history . . . students say, 'Wow! There's more here than I realized.'" History comes alive in Dr. Shepherd's classes.

"Sometimes it's easy to let your life revolve around your discipline . . . and although I'm loyal to and active in my discipline, my profession is teaching."

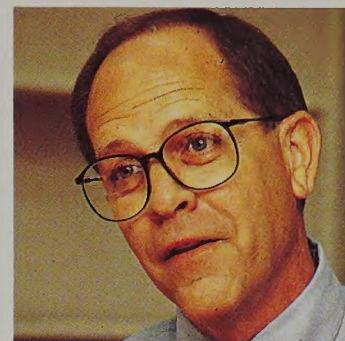

Dr. Harold Christensen, Economics

REWARDING RELATIONSHIPS

“I like the student/teacher ratio . . . we really get to know one another. We become friends. I feel much more effective as a professor working with the students on a personal basis. It’s just more fun.”

Dr. Eddie Vetter, Sociology

These will be four years that make a difference in how you view the world. It is a time of new independence, choices and responsibilities.

Relationships you will establish with the faculty will be friendships you will value for a lifetime. They will continue to nurture you intellectually, emotionally, and spiritually long after you say goodbye at graduation. As one alum said, “The faculty pointed me towards a life of study, interest in everything from literature and religion to physics and philosophy. Many schools can show you how to do a job; Centenary showed me how to live.”

“I’m really excited about Centenary. In some ways it’s been tough. But, I was ready and raring to go. The people here just met me, and we took off together.”

Jill Bowen, Junior

DIVERSE ACTIVITIES

We encourage student participation in all sorts of activities and there are many to choose from. These extracurricular opportunities are important in balancing academic schedules. The fellowship in these programs will enhance your personal life, keeping you physically, mentally, emotionally and spiritually fit.

Many of these organizations have been active for generations at Centenary. They offer students with common interests and goals a chance to interact, grow and generally just enjoy more of life.

You may develop relationships with other students while working on the Conglomerate, Centenary's bi-monthly newspaper, which received the highest rating by the Columbia Scholastic Press Association.

The Choir can open a lot of doors for you to meaningful relationships with fellow students as well as opportunities to meet people from around the world.

Be active. Get involved. Put your best foot forward in athletics, let hard work lead you to an honor society membership, explore your musical talents, be dramatic at the Marjorie Lyons Playhouse, do something to help others – this is the fun that makes all the work worthwhile!

Internships

Sherry Thompson found her teaching practicum both challenging and rewarding.

Brad Nelson discovered his internship at Boots Pharmaceuticals, Inc. to provide invaluable on-the-job experience.

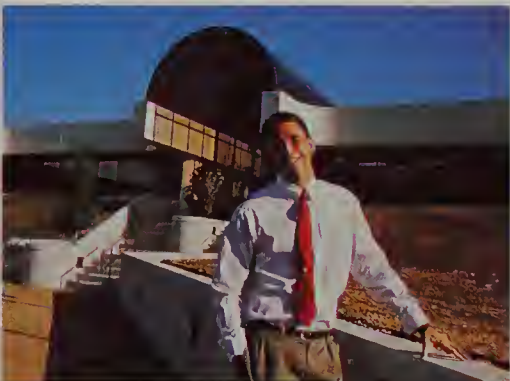

Guest Speakers

In an effort to bridge the gap between the college environment and the real world, the Woodrow Wilson Visiting Fellows Program brings experts in government, journalism, business and the professions to campus for a week of classroom lectures, public addresses and informal talks with students and faculty.

Edward P. Morgan, journalist and news commentator (CBS, NBC) following his visit observed, "Centenary is in a class by itself. There is a certain cohesiveness that seems to bind the faculty, student body and . . . town together."

QUALITY TO LIVE BY

In the final analysis, quality can only be measured by a lifetime examined and judged to be worthwhile. The standard that Centenary uses is demanding. Success means a lifetime of growth – intellectually, emotionally and spiritually. We expect our graduates to continue learning, to remain open to new ideas – willing and able to adapt to the demands of a changing world while maintaining their own integrity.

Here are three of our alumni. Their thoughts serve as good examples of why we say Centenary is quality to live by:

“My Centenary education gave me my ‘center’ – the basis on which I could judge what was right and wrong and what an educated person should do when faced with daily challenges. I used to wonder if I could compete against people who attended ‘big names.’ Now I know that not only can I compete, but I can outdistance them.”

Pam Sargent, 1973 – Assistant Attorney General, Commonwealth of Virginia

“While at Centenary, I saw liberal arts as a means to sample and experience different subject areas. At the time, I was anxious that I would be at a disadvantage compared with students who had specialized degrees. However, I found that I was much better prepared for the intense demands of graduate school than many of my peers.

Timothy Dunnigan, 1977 – Clinical Psychologist

“My liberal arts education has been invaluable in preparing me for the impossible job of producing a weekly television series . . . I oversee the writing, casting, set design, costumes, staging, as well as the editing and post-production facets of the show.”

Rick Hawkins, 1973 – Executive Producer “Mama’s Family”

STUDENT SERVICES

We feel your career preparation is an important part of a college experience. The Career Planning and Placement service is here to help you in:

- choosing your major
- resume writing
- interviewing skills
- developing work values
- developing an internship
- providing interviews with corporate recruiters
- locating part-time jobs

In addition to career counseling the Dean of Students, the Dean of the College, the Chaplain, and professors in the Psychology Department are available for any personal problems you may have.

Students can eat at Bynum Commons Cafeteria or Jukebox Cafe in the activities center. Meal tickets can be purchased for full or three-quarter meal plans. For commuting students, we offer the purchase of a ticket book worth $50 in food or merchandise on campus.

Textbooks and other stationery supplies are available through the campus bookstore.

We have a small infirmary on campus open three days a week for two hours each day. It will be staffed by a physician and nurse for a first contact "sick call" program.

Centenary is a residential school. We provide air conditioned residence halls for all undergraduates (except those living with immediate family). Security personnel are provided by the college for dorms and campus area. Dorm life is an important part of your college experience. The dorm can be your home away from home.

FINANCIAL ASSISTANCE

Financing your education is an important concern.

Centenary will make every effort to assist you in applying for all forms of aid. Our financial aid is awarded in the form of a “package” that may include scholarships, grants, loans and/or part-time employment.

Every year the Financial Aid Office, in conjunction with the Admissions Office, provides an opportunity for qualified students to compete for academic scholarships, including the Alumni, Trustee, President’s, Dean’s and departmental awards. This by-invitation-only opportunity takes place on Scholarship Day.

SCHOLARSHIP	CRITERIA			AMOUNT AND NUMBER AWARDED
	GPA*	SAT	ACT
Alumni	3.5	1300	30	Alumni – Full Tuition	2 awarded
Trustee	3.5	1250	28	Trustee – $4,500	6 awarded
President’s	3.0	1250	28	President’s – $3,000	all eligible
Dean’s	3.0	1100	24	Dean’s – $1,500	all eligible

*GPA is computed using only academic courses

In addition there are scholarships based on interviews and auditions to the Hurley School of Music, Centenary School of Church Careers, Choir, and numerous academic departmental scholarships.

In order to be considered for scholarships and other forms of financial aid, you should complete the following steps:

1. Apply to and be accepted for admission to Centenary.
2. Submit a Centenary College Financial Aid Application to the Office of Financial Aid.
3. Submit a Financial Aid Form (FAF) to the College Scholarship Service (CSS) or the Family Financial Statement to the American College Testing Program (ACT). (Centenary prefers the FAF of the College Scholarship Service.)

Because all federal and state programs including grants, loans, and the work-study program require documentation of a family’s resources, you must submit a financial statement. Even the majority of Centenary’s own scholarships are awarded on the basis of this information. Priority consideration will be given to students who have completed these steps and submitted all requested information by March 15. After this date, consideration will be on a first come, first served basis. For further information regarding financial aid or an appointment, please call 318-869-5137.

ADMISSION REQUIREMENTS

We invite you to apply for admission to Centenary. To do so, please submit the following:

1. Centenary Application for Admission, accompanied by a $20.00 fee.
2. Official transcripts from high school(s) and any college(s) attended.
3. Scores from the American College Testing (ACT) or the Scholastic Aptitude Test (SAT).
4. One essay.
5. List of extracurricular activities.
6. Letter of recommendation.

Although an interview is not required, we strongly recommend one during a visit to campus. An interview gives you an opportunity to share your goals and explain your academic strengths and weaknesses. The notes from this interview will become part of your application file.

We recommend the following curriculum in high school: 4 years of English, 3 years of social science,

3 years of mathematics (Algebra I, Algebra II, and Geometry), 3 years of science, and 2 years of a foreign language, in addition to any electives.

All of the above credentials are carefully evaluated by the Admissions Committee before a final decision is made. We recommend a deadline of February 15. If you have questions about admission requirements or would like to set up an appointment, please call us at 318-869-5131.
